INTRODUCING PANELIST

BRIETTA O'LEARY

DIRECTOR, IRELAND JAPAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE (IJCC), MANAGER, DEI (DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION) COMMITTEE

Brietta O'Leary is from Killarney, Co Kerry in Ireland. She started her engineering career in NEC Semiconductors Ireland, a Japanese company based in Co. Meath.

She was hired as a DRAM test engineer following her graduation from Trinity College Dublin with a Bachelor of Engineering (Electronics and Electrical Engineering).

After a few years with them they transferred her to the design center in Kanagawa for two years. Her next move was to California to pursue a Masters of Science in Computer Science at California State University, Sacramento (CSUS) where she went on to teach in the computer science department after graduation.

When her Irish-Japanese children were school age, she decided to return to Japan to raise them. RasGas hired her to work with JGC (Japan Gasoline Company) in Minato Mirai on an Exxon Mobile LNG project management team. In March 2022 she joined the engineering team in Micron Memory Japan's Design Center in Hashimoto.

Brietta O'Leary's diverse international career spanning from Ireland to Japan and the United States, coupled with her extensive expertise in engineering and commitment to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, makes her an invaluable addition to our EmpowerHer panel.
