

Andrijana Cvetkovikj

CEO and Founder, BrioNexus | Special Advisor for International Cooperation, Ministry of Culture of Japan | Senior Programmer, Tokyo International Film Festival | Executive Producer, TIFFCOM

Andrijana Cvetkovikj is a dynamic leader with a multifaceted career spanning diplomacy, filmmaking, and business. As Macedonia's first Ambassador to Japan, she now serves as an Advisor for International Cooperation to Japan's Minister of Culture. As CEO of BrioNexus, a Tokyo-based firm specializing in quantum computing, AI, and blockchain, she drives innovation in technology and culture.

This year, Andrijana was appointed Senior Programmer at the Tokyo International Film Festival (TIFF) and Executive Producer of TIFFCOM, Asia's largest market for film producers.

Her extensive career includes leadership roles such as Director for North Asia at The Economist Group (The Economist Intelligence Unit) and board positions at publicly listed companies. From 2022 to 2024, she served as a Board Director at the British Chamber of Commerce Japan (BCCJ), where she also chaired the Government Relations Committee.

Dr. Cvetkovikj holds a Ph.D. in Cinema Studies from Nihon University, an Executive MBA from TUJ Fox School of Business, and an Honorary Doctorate from the European University. In recognition of her dedication to promoting diversity and inclusion, she was awarded the WIN Inspiring Women Worldwide Award in 2021.